

“The Concise Book of Position Play”

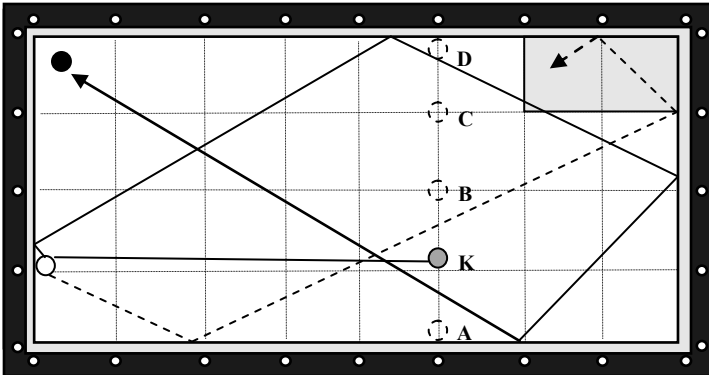

Diagram 1

Diagram 1, shows the object ball frozen to the short rail (but the shot works anytime it's within two inches of the cushion), and on the first diamond from the corner opposite that in which you're trying to score. For our key shot (K), apply English one tip below center, as shown; for positions A, B, C and D, stay that far below center, but add one tip left, one tip right, a tip-and-a-half right, and two-tips right, respectively. "The diagram shows you the approximate paths that the cue ball and first object ball follow for scoring and position.

The proper way to position your feet at the table

The player's weight should be evenly distributed on both legs. The distance the player should be so as, not to be leaning forward, or, the feeling of setting back on your heels. Overall you should feel naturally comfortable with your position at table, before you attempt any shot.
